Quick Reference

The values every army list needs, summarised from the rulebook. Where this page and the rulebook differ, the rulebook applies.

Unit Health

Unit Type	Health
Warrior	1 per model
Cavalry	1 per model
Chariot	1 per Driver, Crewman and Horse
Elephant	6 per Elephant
Warmachine	1 per Engineer

Health	Category	Effect
More than 75%	Full Strength	No penalty
75% or less	Weakened	-1 Accuracy, -1 Strength. Gain 1 Break token on entering
50% or less	Half Strength	-1 Accuracy, -1 Strength. Remove half the models (rounded down). Gain 2 Break tokens on entering. Cannot Rally itself
25% or less	Mass Casualties	-2 Accuracy, -2 Strength. Gain 2 Break tokens on entering and at the start of every Activation Phase. Cannot Rally itself
0% or less	Eradicated	Remove the unit

Breakpoints are rounded down: a unit with 25 Health breaks at 18, 12, 6 and 0. Penalties are not cumulative; entering a worse category applies only the difference.

Unit Strength

Unit Type	Unit Strength
Warrior	1 per model
Cavalry	3 per model
Chariot	1 per Driver, 1 per Crewman, 2 per Horse
Elephant	1 per Mahout, 1 per Crewman, 12 per Elephant
Warmachine	1 per Engineer, plus 3 Light, 5 Heavy or 7 Massive

Levy: a Closed Order unit ignores its rear rank (unless it has only one); an Open Order unit halves its Unit Strength, rounded up.

Army Morale

Starting Army Morale is the sum of every model's Training. Count Drivers, Mahouts and Crewmen as models. Each horse, donkey or camel adds 1 and each elephant adds 5. Special Characters add their own bonus. What a unit adds, with its characters, is its Contribution.

Lose Army Morale for	Amount
Each Shooting Hit (Suppression)	1
Each Health category entered	25% of Contribution
A failed Break Test, each Fleeing Step	25% of Contribution
A failed Charge	The unit's Unit Strength
A unit destroyed any other way or leaving play	What is left of its Contribution

Army Morale	Category	Effect
More than 75%	Holding Strong	No penalty
75% or less	Unease	-1 Training to Mercenary and Levy units
50% or less	Panic	-1 Training to all units
25% or less	Mass Panic	-2 Training to all units. Mercenary and Levy units automatically fail Break Tests and cannot be Rallied
0% or less	Complete Rout	You lose

Armor Saves

Armor	Value	Move	Special
Light Armor	1	0
Medium Armor	2	0	-1 Armor with a Run or Flee token
Heavy Armor	3	-1	Unwieldy (1). -1 Armor with a Run or Flee token
Barding	1	-1	Cavalry only. Stacks with rider's armor
Buckler	0	0	+1 Armor against Melee attacks
Shield	1	0	+1 Armor with a Hold token
Heavy Shield	2	-1	+1 Armor with a Hold token. -1 Armor with a Run or Flee token

Armor Value = Body Armor + Shield + Barding + Unit Type modifier (Cavalry +1, Chariot +1). An Elephant's Armor Value is always 3.

Armor Value	0	1	2	3	4	5+
Armor Save	–	6+	5+	4+	3+	2+

How to Read a Profile

Every unit in this book is printed the same way. This page explains each line.

Header

Move is in inches, before any penalties from armor, shields, Barding or Phalanx. Training is the unit's discipline and morale. Points are per model: per Warrior or Cavalry model, per chariot (with its crew and animals) for Chariots, and per elephant (with its crew) for Elephants.

Warmachines have a split header: War Machine shows the engine's points, and Engineers shows the crew's Move, Training and Points per Engineer. The unit costs the engine's points plus the Engineers' Points for each Engineer.

Composition

Closed Order units list their allowed trays as Ranks of Files, for example "4 Ranks of 6 Warriors". Open Order units list a number of models, for example "4–8 Cavalry". Chariots and Elephants also list the crew and animals on each chariot or elephant.

Equipment, Gear and Options

Equipment must be shown on the models; Gear need not be. Options show their cost per model (or per chariot or elephant), or "free". Characters are one model each, at the flat cost shown; a unit may take each listed Character once.

Weapon and Armor Tables

Length/Range: a plain number is the weapon's melee Length. A number with inches (") is a ranged weapon's range. A Throwing Weapon shows both, for example "6 / 8"": Length 6 in Melee, range 8" when thrown. Keywords in bold are explained in the Rules Reference at the back. The Armor table lists each armor or shield the unit can have, with its Armor modifier and Move penalty.

Command Cards

A Command deck is 6 cards. Each card shows how many copies a deck may hold (Limit). Cards printed in an army's section may only go in that army's deck; Generic Command Cards may go in any deck.

Sumerian City-States

c. 2600–2000 BC · From Early Dynastic Lagash to the Third Dynasty of Ur

The cities of Sumer, in the marshes and river plains of southern Mesopotamia, fought the first wars we can see in pictures. Lagash, Umma, Ur, Uruk and Kish were rival city-states, each ruled in the name of its god, and they fought for generations over fields, canals and water. Sargon of Akkad united them by force into the first empire. After Akkad fell, the kings of Ur rebuilt a Sumerian state, and even raised a long wall, the Muriq-Tidnim, to hold back the Amorite migrants, the Martu. It did not hold: Amorite pressure and an Elamite invasion brought Ur down around 2004 BC.

The Stele of the Vultures shows King Eannatum of Lagash leading a dense block of spearmen behind a wall of great rectangular shields, while the god Ningirsu holds the enemies of Lagash in his battle net. The Standard of Ur shows caped infantry with spears, and heavy four-wheeled battle wagons drawn by teams of kunga, donkey-onager hybrids, riding down the enemy. Small copper models show a lighter car as well, a two-wheeled straddle car whose driver sat astride it like a saddle.

On the table, Sumer wins with its wall. The Eren lock their guru, their shields, at the front of a deep block of spears, so lead with them, put them on Hold, and let Shields of Lagash carry the wall forward. The caped Šub-lugal and the king's Aga-ús follow them in. Use the fast Gigir-tur to goad enemy blocks out of line with Feign Retreat, then hold the heavy Gigir back until the enemy is engaged and crash into a flank. Keep the Martu in Ambush for the moment the line bends. Above all, protect your troops from enemy archers: almost nothing in this army carries armor.

Warrior

Move	Training	Points
6	5	12

Composition: 4 Ranks of 4 Warriors, or 2 Ranks of 5 Warriors
Equipment: 1st Rank: Heavy Shield
Other Ranks: Šukur bronze spear
Options: None
Gear: None
Characters: Lead Captain (3 pts) or Standard Bearer (8 pts). Rear Captain (5 pts).
Special Rules: Mixed Unit, Shieldwall, Guru

Guru. Attacks against this unit from its front arc use the 1st Rank's Armor; attacks from its flanks or rear use the Armor of the other ranks. When this unit enters Half Strength, it removes models from its front rank first, working backward, instead of from its rear rank. A unit loses Shieldwall while none of its models carry a Shield or Heavy Shield. The front rank makes no Melee attacks, so it counts as a rank not contributing attacks for Collision.

Sumerian City-States Command Cards

The God's Steward

LIMIT 1

Until the end of the round, every unit in your army without the Mercenary rule gains Frenzy.

The king rules as steward of the city's god, and the god's people fight for him.

Shields of Lagash

LIMIT 1

Ongoing. At the End of the Round, each friendly unit with a Shield or Heavy Shield that has a Hold Action Token and is not Locked in Combat moves directly forward up to half its Move value, stopping 1" from any enemy unit. It keeps its Hold Action Token. Discard this card as soon as a friendly unit with a Shield or Heavy Shield is Locked in Combat.

Behind a wall of shields, the men of Lagash tread down the dead of Umma.

Battle Net of Ningirsu

LIMIT 1

Until the end of the round, enemy units Locked in Combat with your units cannot leave the Melee. They cannot Flee (a unit that would Flee stays Locked in Combat and keeps its Flee Action Token; its controller still loses Army Morale for the failed Break Test, but none in the Fleeing Step), Disengage, or make a Withdraw Combat Move.

Ningirsu casts his great net over the men of Umma, and none escape.

Muriq-Tidnim

LIMIT 1

Obstacle, Wall. Before deployment, place a wall up to 8" long and ½" wide anywhere within 6" of your deployment zone. It does not block lines of fire. Shooting attacks that pass over it treat the target as in at least Light Cover. Enemy units with Scout or Ambush cannot be deployed within 12" of it.

Shu-Sin raises the wall that keeps the Amorites away.

Dynastic Egypt

c. 1550–1070 BC · From the expulsion of the Hyksos to the end of the New Kingdom

The Hyksos kings who ruled northern Egypt brought the horse, the light chariot and the composite bow with them from Asia, and when Ahmose drove them out he kept all three. The pharaohs of the New Kingdom turned them into the most famous army of the Bronze Age. Thutmose III marched through the Megiddo pass to break a Canaanite coalition and campaigned in Syria seventeen times. Ramesses II fought the Hittites at Kadesh in 1274 BC, and Ramesses III threw back the Sea Peoples on land and in the mouths of the Nile.

The chariot corps was the army's elite. Each light, two-horse chariot carried a driver and a warrior with a composite bow, and the king led them in person in a chariot of his own. Runners went with them on foot to finish off what the arrows brought down. Behind came companies of spearmen with tall round-topped shields, shock troops with the curved khopesh and the axe, and massed bowmen shooting in ranks. Young recruits filled out the levy, and foreigners served beside the Egyptians: Sherden warriors with horned helmets and long swords guarded Ramesses II, and the Canaanite Ne'arin arrived at Kadesh just in time to save his camp.

On the table, Egypt wins with combined arms. The Snnw chariots shoot and skirmish rather than ride infantry down, so let the Mnfyt and Nḫtw-ꜥ hold the line while the chariots wear the enemy down from range. The Styw are a cheap firing line, but they cannot skirmish: keep them behind or beside the spearmen. Send the Pḥrrw in after the chariots to finish units they have caught, and hold the Nꜥrn in Ambush for the moment the enemy commits. The Pr-ꜥꜣ Retinue carries the pharaoh himself, and Inspiring lets him give up his Hold to make one nearby unit strike more surely at the height of the fighting.

Dynastic Egypt Command Cards

Amun, My Father

LIMIT 1

Play at the start of a round. Until the end of the round, the Pr-ꜥ3 Retinue's Inspiring gives +1 Accuracy to every friendly unit within 12" instead of one, and your Commander's range for granting Special Moves is doubled (12", or 36" with a Standard Bearer).

Alone among his enemies at Kadesh, Ramesses called on his father Amun, and charged.

The Aruna Road

LIMIT 1

Play during deployment, before Byes are counted. Up to 2 friendly Warrior, Light Warrior or Skirmishing Warrior units without the Mercenary rule gain the Scout special rule.

Thutmose took the narrow road through the hills, and his army came down before Megiddo where no one expected it.

Shoot in Ranks

LIMIT 1

Until the end of the round, friendly units using Volley ignore its -1 Accuracy.

Company by company, the bowmen loosed as one.

Trampling the Nine Bows

LIMIT 1

Until the end of the round, friendly Chariot units gain +1 Strength with all their attacks, Shooting and Melee, against enemy units that have at least 1 Break Token or a Flee Action Token.

The Nine Bows, the enemies of Egypt, lie beneath the sandals of Pharaoh.

Trumpets of the Divisions

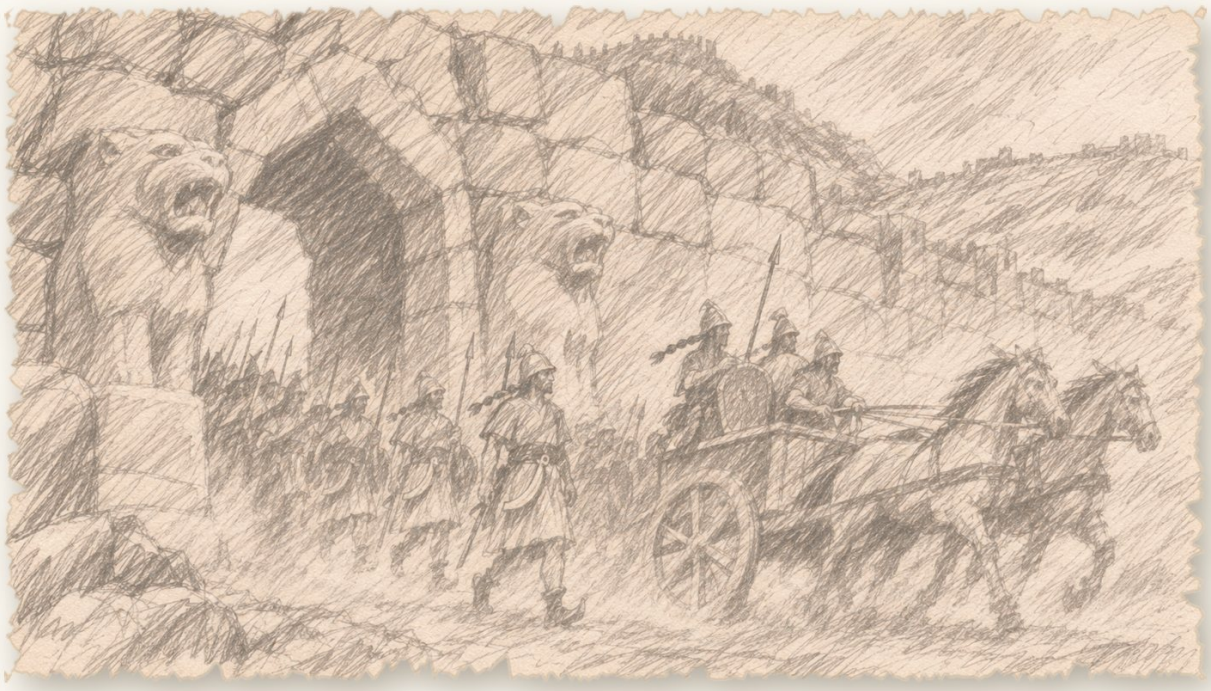

LIMIT 1

Until the end of the round, friendly units with a Musician may make their Special Move even while they have a Hold Action Token, and may move up to 2" instead of 1". Chariots and Elephants still only move directly forward or backwards.

The trumpets of the divisions of Amun, Ra and Ptah sound across the field.

Hittite Empire

c. 1400–1180 BC · From Šuppiluliuma I to the fall of Hattusa

From their capital at Hattusa in the highlands of Anatolia, the Hittite Great Kings built an empire that rivalled Egypt itself. Šuppiluliuma I broke the power of Mitanni and brought the cities of Syria under Hittite rule, and his successors held a web of vassal kingdoms together through treaties sworn before the "thousand gods of Hatti". When the king marched, those vassals marched with him, bringing their own archers, spearmen and chariots to stand beside the native Hattian troops.

The chariot was the heart of the army. Hittite chariots were heavier than their Egyptian rivals and carried a crew of three, the driver joined by a spearman and a shield-bearer, so they could ride down infantry as well as skirmish. At Kadesh in 1274 BC, Muwatalli II hid thousands of them behind the city and threw them across the Orontes into the flank of Ramesses II's marching army, nearly destroying it before Egyptian reinforcements arrived. Behind the chariots stood solid spearmen, the king's guard and his household troops, while archers and javelin-men screened the line and lay in wait for the enemy.

On the table, the Hittites win with their chariots. Use the infantry to hold the center and fix the enemy in place, screen with archers and javelin-men, then drive the chariots into a flank once the enemy is committed. The vassal contingents add numbers and missile power, but they are Mercenaries: keep them away from the worst of the fighting once Army Morale starts to fall.

Hittite Empire Command Cards

Chariots of the Storm God — LIMIT 1

Until the end of the round, all your Chariot units gain +1 Accuracy.

Like the Storm God's bulls, the chariots thunder across the field.

Kadesh Ambush — LIMIT 1

Play during deployment, before Byes are counted. One Chariot unit gains the Scout special rule.

Hidden behind the city, the chariots fall upon the enemy's flank.

Crossing the Orontes — LIMIT 1

Until the end of the round, units in your army without the Mercenary rule treat Marsh terrain, and terrain that follows the Marsh rules, as Difficult Terrain only.

The river runs low in summer, and the chariots know the ford.

The Thousand Gods of Hatti — LIMIT 1

Until the end of the round, units within 18" of a Mešedi Retinue gain the following. Giš.Ban Arzawa, Šukur.Tur Kaška and Anše.Kur.Ra Mittanni: +1 Move and Aim. Levy units: automatically pass their next Break test. Karaš Ḫatti, Giš.Ban Ḫatti, Šukur.Tur Ḫatti, Anše.Kur.Ra Ḫatti and Mešedi: +1 Strength with melee weapons, and Frenzy. The Mešedi Retinue does not gain these bonuses itself.

Sworn before the gods of Hatti, vassal and native fight as one.

The Golden Spearmen — LIMIT 1

Play when a Mešedi or Mešedi Retinue unit enters Half Strength. It removes no models and gains no Break Tokens for entering it. It still suffers the Half Strength penalties.

The Šukur.Guškin, the king's second guard, step into the gaps around him.

Kingdom of Kush

c. 750–650 BC · From Piye's conquest of Egypt to the fall of Thebes

For a thousand years the Egyptians called Nubia Ta-Seti, the Land of the Bow, and hired its archers for their own wars. In the eighth century BC the kings of Napata, far up the Nile, turned the tables. Piye sailed north, purified his army before Amun at Thebes, broke the Libyan chiefs of the Delta, and made himself pharaoh of a united Egypt. For almost a century his family ruled from the Fourth Cataract to the Mediterranean as the 25th Dynasty. Taharqa, the greatest of them, raised temples across both lands, ran his soldiers through the desert from Memphis to the Faiyum to keep them hard, and fought the Assyrian Empire for twenty years before Ashurbanipal's armies drove his successor back to Nubia.

The Kushite army was an army of bowmen. Greek writers remembered their bows as taller than a man, and Egyptian art shows the archers with feathers in their hair. Around them stood Egyptian spearmen and recruits, Kushite warriors with maces and throwsticks, Libyan warriors from the Delta with long swords, and desert scouts in the old tradition of the Medjay. Kush was famous for its horses as well: Assyrian kings prized Kushite horses, and Piye himself wept to find the horses of a defeated rival left to starve.

On the table, Kush wins at range. Screen your Pḏtyw with the Mšᶜ spearmen and the cheap Ḏ3mw, and give your archers rounds of Hold to Aim, especially when you play Ta-Seti. The Šmsw Retinue is a small band of royal archers rather than a battle line, so keep it behind the infantry where its general can work. Your two horse units, the Wrrt chariots and the Ssmtyw horsemen, add more Army Morale than their size suggests and can harass the flanks. Hold the Mḏ3yw in Ambush on rough ground, and save Purification Before Amun for the round the enemy's elephants or chariots arrive.

Kingdom of Kush Command Cards

The Running Stele

LIMIT 1

Play at the start of a round. Until the end of the round, friendly Warrior and Light Warrior units gain +1 Move, or +2 Move while they have a Run Action Token.

The king's soldiers ran by night across the desert, from Memphis to the Faiyum and back again before the dawn.

Purification Before Amun

LIMIT 1

Play at the start of a round. Until the end of the round, friendly units automatically pass Fear Tests and gain no Break Tokens from Terrify, either from the Terrify special rule or from a Charge by a much larger unit.

At Thebes the army washed in the river, put on clean linen, and bowed before Amun before marching north.

Ta-Seti

LIMIT 1

Play at the start of a round. Until the end of the round, friendly units that use Aim gain an additional +1 Accuracy and +1 Strength with their Shooting attacks.

In the Land of the Bow, a man was taught to put his arrow through an enemy's eye.

Bow of the Kushite King

LIMIT 1

Play after an enemy unit resolves a Shooting attack against a friendly unit. Each friendly Pḏtyw unit within 12" of that friendly unit that is not Locked in Combat and has a line of fire to the attacker may immediately make a Shooting attack against it at -2 Accuracy. This does not change their Action Tokens.

Tell your king: when his men draw a bow like this one as easily as I do, then let him march on Kush.

The Horses of Piye

LIMIT 1

Play at the start of a round. Each friendly Wrrt and Ssmtyw unit removes 1 Break Token. Until the end of the round, these units may attempt to Rally themselves even at Half Strength or Mass Casualties.

Piye walked into the stables of the fallen and wept that the horses had been left to hunger.

Achaemenid Persia

c. 550–330 BC · From Cyrus the Great to Darius III

When Cyrus the Great overthrew the Medes in 550 BC, he began the largest empire the world had yet seen. Within a generation the Achaemenid kings ruled from the Aegean to the Indus, and their armies drew on every people they governed: Persians and Medes at the core, with Bactrians, Sakā nomads, Ionian Greeks, Egyptians and Indians called up from the satrapies.

The heart of the Persian battle line was the Sparabārā, the "shield bearers". A front rank of men with tall wicker shields, the spara, planted them to form a wall, while the ranks behind loosed volley after volley over their heads. The plan was to break the enemy with arrows before the lines ever met, then to finish them with cavalry. The Anušiyā, the Ten Thousand "Immortals" whose ranks were always kept full, were the king's elite foot, and Persian and Median horsemen, together with Sakā horse archers, guarded the flanks and harried the enemy. By the fourth century the empire also fielded Kardakā, heavier infantry that may have been raised to answer the Greek hoplites who had beaten Persian foot at Marathon and Plataea, as well as scythed chariots and the occasional war elephant, as at Gaugamela in 331 BC.

On the table, Persia wins the shooting war. Plant the spara, darken the sky, and let the enemy come to you through the arrows; use your fast cavalry and chariots to pick the moment, and avoid trading blows with heavy infantry on equal terms.

Scythicon Poison

LIMIT 1

Choose up to 2 friendly Sakā or Scythian Archers units. Until the end of the round, they attack at -1 Strength, and their base Suppression is equal to the target's Training value instead of 1.

Steppe archers dip their arrows in rot and venom, so even a scratch spreads terror.

Prepared Ground

LIMIT 1

Before deployment, place a 12" × 12" area of Prepared Ground anywhere on the battlefield. It may overlap the Major Terrain. Within it, the Major Terrain, and any terrain that follows the rules for a Major Terrain type (such as Flooded Field), has no effect. Obstacles are unaffected.

Darius's laborers scrape the plain flat for the scythed chariots.

King of Kings

LIMIT 1

Your army may include 2 units chosen from Arabian Camel Riders, Greek Hoplites and Scythian Archers from the Supplemental Mercenaries list, and Pḏtyw (Kushite archers) from the Kingdom of Kush list. Units taken this way have the Mercenary rule.

If you take a mercenary unit through this card, this card must be one of the 3 cards in your hand.

Conquered kings send their warriors to serve the throne.

Classical Greece

c. 490–338 BC · From Marathon to Chaeronea

In the two centuries after the Persian Wars, the city-states of Greece fought the Great King, and far more often one another, with armies of citizen hoplites. Each man bought his own bronze helmet, armor, spear and the great round shield, the aspis, and took his place in the phalanx beside his neighbours. Athens, Sparta and Thebes each led Greece in turn, and at Marathon, Thermopylae and Plataea the hoplites showed that they could stand against anything Persia sent.

The phalanx was a wall of overlapping shields and leveled spears, eight or more ranks deep, which won by pushing and stabbing its way through the enemy line in the shoving match the Greeks called othismos. Its finest troops were professionals such as the Spartans and the Hieròs Lóchos, the Sacred Band of Thebes, whose 300 men were never beaten until Philip of Macedon destroyed them at Chaeronea. As the period wore on, light troops grew in importance: peltasts with javelins and light shields destroyed a Spartan regiment at Lechaeum in 390 BC, and Cretan archers and Rhodian slingers were hired for their skill. Cavalry was few in number and kept to the wings.

On the table, Greece wins in the center. A hoplite phalanx is very hard to beat from the front, so pick a fight where it can strike head on and let the enemy come onto your spears. Its weakness is its flanks: use your peltasts, slingers and few horsemen to keep enemy cavalry and skirmishers away from them, and don't let faster troops pick the phalanx apart from a distance.

Classical Greece Command Cards

The Hot Gates

LIMIT 1

Choose one friendly Warrior, Light Warrior or Skirmishing Warrior unit and one effect. Feign Retreat: until the end of the round, it gains Feign Retreat and +1 Move (+2 Move if it has Phalanx). Disengage: if it is Locked in Combat, play this card at the start of its activation; it moves directly backwards up to 2" (Open Order: each model moves up to 2" away), without moving into base contact with any enemy unit, and is no longer Locked in Combat. It then continues its activation as normal, but may not Charge this round.

The Spartans turn as if to flee, then fall upon the Persians who follow.

Othismos

LIMIT 1

Until the end of the round, Phalanx units with a Charge Action Token also count as having a Hold Action Token.

Shield presses on shield as the phalanx drives forward.

In the Shade

LIMIT 1

Ongoing. Phalanx units you control subtract 1 from Suppression. Discard this card when a Phalanx unit you control fails a Break test or is destroyed. Covers every unit with the Phalanx rule, even while it is negated.

Let their arrows hide the sun; we will fight in the shade.

Phocian Wall

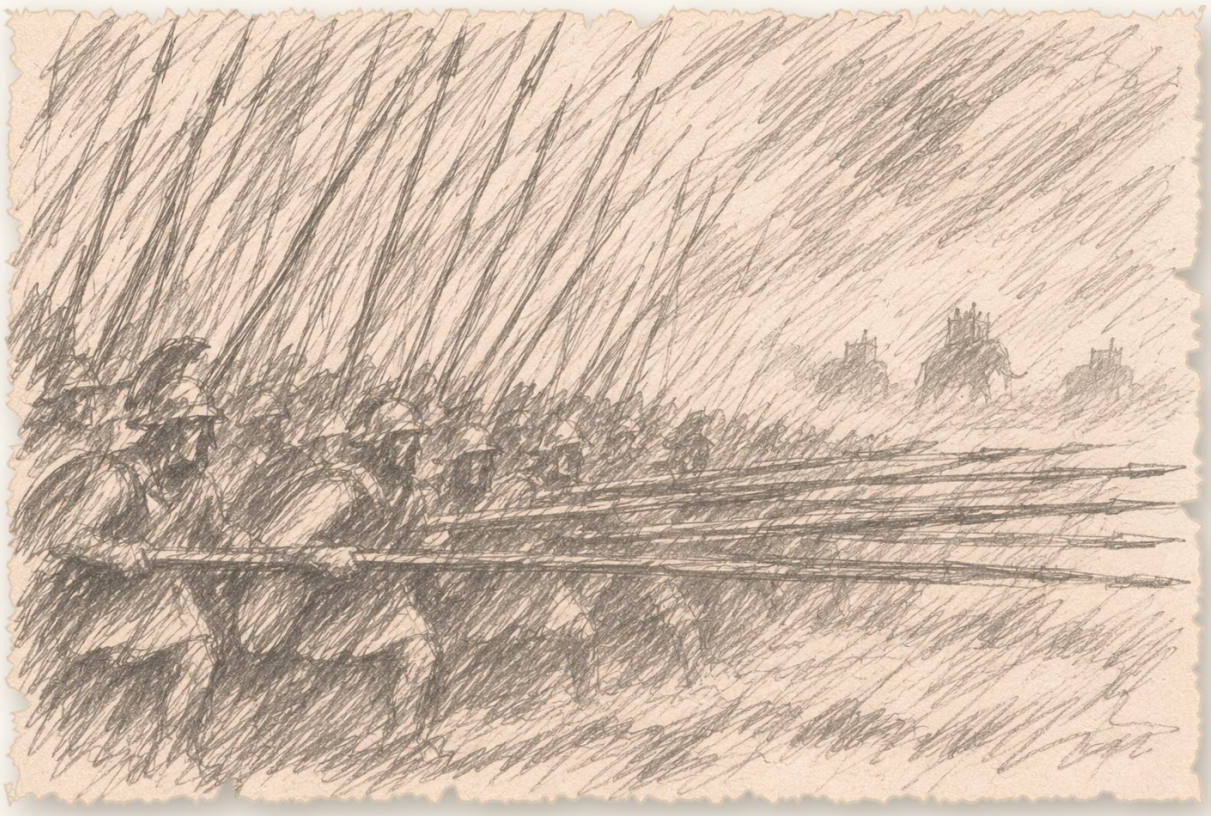

LIMIT 1

Obstacle, Wall. Before deployment, place a wall up to 8" long and ½" wide in your deployment zone. It does not block lines of fire. Shooting attacks that pass over it treat the target as in at least Cover.

Behind the old wall of the Phocians, three hundred hold the pass.

Armies of Alexander

c. 359–168 BC · From Philip II to Pydna

When Philip II took the throne of Macedon in 359 BC, his kingdom was a backward state on the edge of the Greek world. In twenty years he turned it into the strongest power in Greece. He drilled his peasant infantry into a pike phalanx armed with the sarissa, a spear five metres long or more, and built around it a professional army of guards, light troops, engineers and noble cavalry. At Chaeronea in 338 BC it broke the armies of Athens and Thebes. His son Alexander took the same army across the Hellespont, beat the Persian Empire at the Granicus, Issus and Gaugamela, and marched it as far as India. After Alexander died in 323 BC, his generals fought one another for forty years over his empire, and the kingdoms they founded, Antigonid Macedon, the Seleucid east and Ptolemaic Egypt, fought in the Macedonian way until Rome ended them.

The army fought as a team. The Pezhétairoi, the "foot companions", formed a hedge of pikes that no enemy could face head on. The Hypaspistaí linked them to the cavalry, and the Agriânes and Cretan archers screened the whole line. The decisive blow came from the Hetaîroi, the Companion cavalry, charging in wedges with the king at their head while Thessalian horsemen held the other wing. The Successors added Indian elephants with fighting towers, Tarantine javelin cavalry, and the versatile Thureophóroi, and the old guard of Alexander's hypaspists fought on into their sixties as the Argyráspides, the Silver Shields.

On the table, the Armies of Alexander win with hammer and anvil. Your phalanx is slow and clumsy to turn, but nothing charges its front without paying for it, so use it to pin the enemy line. Keep your Hypaspistaí and light troops on its flanks, then strike with your Companions where the enemy is already held.

Lead from the front: your king gains Initiative when he charges, but losing his retinue will cost you dearly.

Armies of Alexander Command Cards

Émbolon

LIMIT 1

Until the end of the round, friendly Closed Order Cavalry and Chariot units that Charge count double their Unit Strength for Terrify and for Bumping.

The Companions drove into the gap point first, like the head of a spear.

Lord of Asia

LIMIT 1

Your army may include 2 units from the Supplemental Mercenaries list, chosen from Greek Hoplites, Scythian Archers (the Dahae horse archers) and Cataphracts. Units taken through this card do not have the Mercenary rule.

If you take a mercenary unit through this card, this card must be one of the 3 cards in your hand.

At Susa the conquerors married the conquered, and the peoples of Asia marched under one king.

Oblique Advance

LIMIT 1

Play after deployment, before the first round. Each friendly Closed Order unit may move up to 3” directly left or right, without turning.

Alexander edged his line ever to the right, off the ground the Persians had leveled for their chariots.

Aristander's Eagle

LIMIT 1

Play at the start of a round. Each friendly unit within 18” of your Commander removes 1 Break Token.

The seer rode along the line in white, pointing to the eagle that flew above the king toward the enemy.

Ipsus

LIMIT 1

Ongoing. Choose a friendly Elephant unit. Enemy Cavalry and Chariot units cannot end a move within 6” of it unless they Charge it. Discard this card if that unit is destroyed or Flees.

Seleucus set his elephants across the field, and Demetrius's horsemen could not ride back to save the phalanx.

Synaspismós

LIMIT 1

Play at the start of a round. Until the end of the round, units with the Makedonikḗ Aspís gain +1 Armor while they have a Hold Action Token, as a Shield does, but they cannot Charge or Run.

Shoulder to shoulder, shield touching shield, the pikes waited.

Imperial Rome

c. 27 BC–AD 235 · From Augustus to the Severans

When Augustus ended the civil wars, he turned Rome's armies into a permanent professional force that guarded a frontier stretching from Britain to the Euphrates. For the next two centuries the legions fought Germans on the Rhine, Britons at Mons Graupius, Dacians in the mountains beyond the Danube and Parthians in the east, and they won far more often than they lost.

At the core of every army were the legionaries: Roman citizens who served for twenty-five years, drilled until they could march, build a fortified camp and fight in close order better than any enemy. Each carried two heavy javelins, the pila, a large curved shield and a short sword for close work. The legion threw its pila just before contact to break up the enemy's shields and formation, then closed in with the sword. Veterans, the emperor's Praetorian Guard and senior officers stiffened the line. Beside the legions served the auxilia, non-citizen troops who made up half the army and who often did most of the fighting. Their spearmen, archers and mixed cohorts of infantry and cavalry gave Rome the light troops and horsemen its legions lacked. Every legion also carried artillery, from bolt-shooting scorpiones to the cart-mounted carroballistae shown on Trajan's Column.

On the table, Rome wins by being steady. Its legionaries are well armored, well trained and hard to break, and their pila hit hard just before the lines meet. Use the auxilia and cavalry to cover the flanks and the artillery to wear the enemy down as it approaches, then let the legions grind through whatever reaches them.

Imperial Rome Command Cards

Triplex Aciēs

LIMIT 1

Play on a Closed Order unit, even one Locked in Combat. It recovers Health equal to a third of its starting Health (rounded down) and removes 2 Break Tokens. If this lifts it into a better Health category, it takes that category's penalties instead, removing Penalty tokens to match, and you regain 25% of its Contribution for each category it moves up. Removed models do not return.

Fresh men step forward as the weary front rank falls back.

Impetus

LIMIT 1

Until the end of the round, units using Iacite Pīla ignore its -2 Accuracy and add +1 to Suppression.

A storm of pila breaks the enemy's shields before the swords go in.

Fulcum

LIMIT 1

Until the end of the round, all units with Testūdō are treated as having the Phalanx special rule. They may also use their Pīlum in Melee as described in Testūdō (Length 6, -1 Strength, no Sunder), even if they did not take the Hold action.

Shields locked edge to edge, the cohort becomes a wall.

Fossa

LIMIT 1

Obstacle. Before deployment, place a trench up to 12" long and 1" wide that starts in your deployment zone. It is not a Wall. Cavalry, Chariots, Elephants and Warmachines cannot cross it. Other units cross it at half their Move Allowance. A Charge that crosses it is broken: the charging unit gains no +1 Strength from its Charge Action Token, causes no Collision, and cannot use weapons that may only be used on the Charge.

Caesar's spades guard the flanks better than any cohort.

Līlia

LIMIT 1

Obstacle. Before deployment, place two 3" × 3" Līlia markers anywhere within 6" of your deployment zone. A Cavalry, Chariot or Elephant unit that moves into one suffers 1 hit at Strength 5 per model and gains a Break Token. Warrior units treat it as Difficult Terrain.

The 'lilies' bloom with sharpened stakes.

Numerī

LIMIT 1

Your army may include 2 units from the Supplemental Mercenaries list, chosen from Cataphracts, Numidian Javelineers, Arabian Camel Riders and Thracian Warriors.

If you take a mercenary unit through this card, this card must be one of the 3 cards in your hand.

Bands from the frontiers fight for Rome's pay and favor.

Aztec Empire

AD 1428–1521 · From the Triple Alliance to the fall of Tenochtitlan

In 1428 the Mexica of Tenochtitlan joined with Texcoco and Tlacopan to overthrow their overlords, and within a century this Triple Alliance ruled most of central Mexico. Its island capital, set among the lakes and floating gardens of the Valley of Mexico, was one of the largest cities in the world when the Spanish arrived in 1519. Conquered cities paid tribute in cloth, food and warriors, and the empire went to war almost every year.

Every Mexica man was trained for war, and he rose through the ranks by taking captives rather than by killing. A youth who took his first prisoner earned the right to new clothing and a name. Those who took several could join the great warrior societies: the Eagle and Jaguar warriors, and the elite Shorn Ones, the cuāchicqueh, who swore never to retreat. Warriors wore quilted cotton armor and carried round shields and the mācuahuitl, a wooden club edged with obsidian blades that Spanish soldiers claimed could behead a horse. Archers, slingers and dart-throwers armed with the atlatl opened every battle. Some wars, the "flower wars", were fought by arrangement, simply so that both sides could take captives for sacrifice.

On the table, the Aztecs win with speed and aggression. They have no heavy infantry and little armor, but every unit can move fast and hit hard. Soften the enemy with your dart-throwers and slingers, then pick your moment and close in quickly with the mācuahuitl, before the enemy's heavier troops can bring their weight to bear.

Aztec Empire Command Cards

Flower War

LIMIT 1

Regain 2 Army Morale for each model in each enemy unit destroyed so far, counting the models it started the game with. You can't regain more than 25% of your Starting Army Morale.

Every captive taken rekindles the warriors' fervor.

Blood for Huītzilōpōchtli

LIMIT 1

Until the end of the round, units within 8” of a Shaman gain Frenzy, and each unit with a Shaman gains +1 Strength with melee weapons.

Priests drive the warriors on, promising hearts for the war god.

Death Whistle

LIMIT 1

Enemy units within 24” of a unit with a Shaman or Army Musician take a Fear Test at -1. Units that fail lose their Hold Action Token.

A shriek like the cry of the dead rises from the Aztec ranks.

Chinampas

LIMIT 1

Before deployment, place a 6” × 6” area of Chinampas in the neutral zone, outside every deployment zone. It follows the rules for a Marsh, but units in your army without the Mercenary rule ignore its effects.

Canals and floating gardens swallow the invader; the Mexica know every path.

Generic Command Cards

Any army may include these cards in its Command deck.

Supplemental Mercenaries — Limit 3

Your army may include 1 unit from the Supplemental Mercenaries list for each copy of this card in your deck.

For each mercenary unit you take, one copy of this card must be in your 3-card hand.

Gold buys soldiers when loyalty runs short.

Crumbled Ruins — Limit 3

Before deployment, place 6" × 6" Crumbled Ruins in the neutral zone, outside every deployment zone. They follow the rules for a Stony Plain, and units in them have Light Cover.

The bones of an older city trip the living.

Dense Brush — Limit 3

Obstacle, Flammable. Before deployment, place a 6" × 6" patch of Dense Brush in the neutral zone, outside every deployment zone. It is impassable and blocks all lines of fire that pass over it.

Thorn and thicket swallow whole companies from view.

Field Wall

LIMIT 1

Obstacle, Wall. Before deployment, place a wall up to 8" long and ½" wide in your deployment zone. It does not block lines of fire. Shooting attacks that pass over it treat the target as in at least Light Cover.

Stones cleared from the fields, piled shoulder-high along the boundary.

Flooded Field

LIMIT 3

Before deployment, place a 6" × 6" Flooded Field in the neutral zone, outside every deployment zone. It follows the rules for a Marsh.

Broken dikes turn the farmland into a mire.

Monument

LIMIT 3

Obstacle. Before deployment, place a 2" × 2" Monument in the neutral zone, outside every deployment zone. It is impassable and blocks all lines of fire that pass over it. Your units within 6" of it gain +2 to Break tests.

Beneath the gaze of their ancestors, no warrior wants to be the first to run.

Rolling Wagons

LIMIT 1

Obstacle, Flammable. Before deployment, place 3 wagon markers (40 × 60mm) in your deployment zone, facing the enemy board edge. Until released, the wagons are impassable, do not block lines of fire, and shooting attacks that pass over them treat the target as in at least Light Cover. Once per game, at the start of any Activation Phase, release them: each wagon moves directly forward up to 18" until it touches a unit or impassable terrain. If it touches an enemy unit, that unit takes a Fear Test and gains a Break Token, then the wagon makes 2 attacks at Accuracy 9, Strength 7 against it (Accuracy 5 if the unit passed the test). The wagon is then removed. A wagon that touches a friendly unit or impassable terrain, or travels 18", is removed without effect. Wagons are not units: they cannot be targeted or charged, do not generate or lose Army Morale, and take no Order Tokens.

The tribesmen massed their carts at the head of the pass, ready to send them crashing into the climbing phalanx.

Watchtower

LIMIT 3

Obstacle, Flammable. Before deployment, place a 3" × 3" Watchtower in your deployment zone. It is impassable but does not block lines of fire. Shooting attacks that pass over it treat the target as in at least Light Cover. While a Skirmishing Warrior unit is in base contact with it, and no other unit is in base contact with that unit or the Watchtower, no enemy unit may deploy within 18" of the Watchtower. Any player may use this effect.

From the tower, no ambush goes unseen.

Downpour

LIMIT 1

Weather. Play during the End of the Round Phase of a round in which you had the Initiative. During the next round, all Shooting attacks suffer -1 Accuracy, Direct Fire has no effect, and Chariot units treat the whole battlefield as Difficult Terrain.

The sky opened, the bowstrings went slack, and the chariot wheels sank to the axles.

The Eclipse

LIMIT 1

Weather. Play during the End of the Round Phase of a round in which you had the Initiative. During the next round, every bonus to Initiative, including bonuses from cards played later, becomes a penalty of the same size; penalties are unaffected. Any Favorable Omens card in play ends. At the start of the next round, before Initiative is rolled, every Retinue unit on the battlefield, friendly and enemy, takes a Fear Test. A unit that fails cannot use the abilities of its Retinue Special Characters until the end of the round (their Initiative penalty still applies).

The sun went dark at midday, and both armies lowered their weapons in fear.

Sandstorm

LIMIT 1

Weather. Play during the End of the Round Phase of a round in which you had the Initiative. During the next round, no unit may trace a line of fire to, or declare a Charge against, a unit more than 12" away. At the end of each unit's activation, if it is within 12" of Sand terrain and did not take the Hold action, it suffers 1 Hit at Strength 4.

The wind rose off the desert, and the enemy line vanished behind a wall of sand.

Scorching Heat

LIMIT 1

Weather. Play during the End of the Round Phase of a round in which you had the Initiative. During the next round, each time a unit Runs, Flees, or Charges, its controlling player loses Army Morale equal to the unit's Armor Value, not counting bonuses from its unit type (such as the Toughness of Cavalry). Elephants count their crew's armor instead.

By noon the bronze was too hot to touch, and men fell in the ranks without a wound.

Bodyguard

LIMIT 3

Until the end of the round, one of your Warrior, Light Warrior or Skirmishing Warrior units with base Training 7 or higher, and without Retinue in its name, gains the Guard special rule.

The best men stand closest to their general, ready to step in front of any blow.

Bribed Mercenaries

LIMIT 1

Play at the start of the Activation Phase. Choose an enemy unit with the Mercenary special rule. Until the end of the round, it cannot move, shoot, or Rally, and it makes no melee attacks. You lose Army Morale equal to 10% of your Starting Army Morale, rounded up.

They were paid to fight. Now they are paid to watch.

Caltrops

LIMIT 1

Play at the start of the Orders Phase, before any Order Tokens are placed. Choose a friendly Closed Order unit that still has its Hold Action Token from the previous round and is not Locked in Combat. Place a strip of caltrops 1" deep along that unit's front edge, as wide as its tray. A Cavalry, Chariot or Elephant unit that moves into the strip, including during a Charge, loses the +1 Strength from its Charge Action Token that round, and each of its models in contact with the strip suffers 1 Hit at Strength 4. Other units treat the strip as Difficult Terrain. The caltrops stay for the rest of the game.

Four iron points, and however it falls, one stands upright.

Challenge of Champions

LIMIT 1

Play at the start of a round. Choose a friendly unit with a Special Character and an enemy unit with a Special Character within 12" of it. Each player rolls 1d6 and adds the Training value of their chosen unit, rerolling ties. The loser's army loses Army Morale equal to 10% of its Starting Army Morale, rounded up, and the loser's unit gains a Break Token.

Let the two best men decide what ten thousand cannot.

Change of Orders

LIMIT 1

Requires your Commander's unit to be on the battlefield and not Fleeing. Play at the end of the Orders Phase. Swap the Order Tokens of two of your units within 12" of your Commander's unit.

A rider gallops down the line with new instructions.

The Colors Must Not Fall

LIMIT 1

Play at the start of the Morale Phase. Choose any number of your units with a Standard Bearer or Army Standard Bearer. Each chosen unit removes all of its Break and Flee Tokens, then suffers 1 Damage. This Damage has no save, and costs Army Morale if the unit enters a lower Health category.

Men who would have run turn back to die beside their banner.

Din of Battle

LIMIT 1

Ongoing. Requires your Army Musician's unit to be on the battlefield and not Fleeing. Enemy Commander and Musician Special Moves cannot be made by units within 12" of your Army Musician's unit. Discard this card when your Army Musician's unit becomes Locked in Combat.

No order can be heard over the roar of the horns.

Disengage

LIMIT 1

Play at the start of the activation of a friendly unit that is Locked in Combat. It moves directly backwards up to 2" (Open Order: each model moves up to 2" away), without moving into base contact with any enemy unit, and is no longer Locked in Combat. It then continues its activation as normal, but may not Charge this round.

Step back together. Shields up. Not one man turns his back.

Favorable Omens

LIMIT 1

Play at the start of the game. Whenever you roll a 1 for Initiative, you may reroll it. If the reroll is also a 1, the omens turn against you: this card ends. The Eclipse also ends it.

The priest read the entrails and smiled.

Feigned Flight

LIMIT 3

Until the end of the round, up to two of your Light Cavalry or Skirmishing Cavalry units gain Feign Retreat.

The horsemen wheel away as if beaten, and the foolish give chase.

Fire Brands

LIMIT 1

Play during the Combat Phase, before any Melee is resolved. Choose one friendly unit. If it is in base contact with an enemy Chariot or Warmachine unit, that unit suffers 1 Hit at Strength 6 per model of the friendly unit in base contact with it, ignoring Armor from Shields, and gains 2 Break Tokens. These Hits replace the friendly unit's melee attacks for this Combat Phase. If it is in base contact with a Flammable Obstacle, the Obstacle burns: it is impassable and blocks all lines of fire until the end of the next round, then is removed. A wagon from Rolling Wagons that has not been released, or an abandoned war engine, is simply removed.

Pitch, tow and torches, and a stout arm to throw them.

Flaming Ammunition

LIMIT 1

Cannot be played during Downpour. Play when a friendly unit with a Direct Fire or Piercing Shot weapon activates. Until the end of the round, that weapon loses Direct Fire and Piercing Shot, but each Hit that causes damage gives the target 1 extra Break Token, and a Cavalry, Chariot or Elephant unit that takes a Hit from it must take a Fear Test, gaining another Break Token if it fails. The unit may also target a Flammable Obstacle or an abandoned enemy war engine within range and line of fire: the Obstacle burns as with Fire Brands, and the war engine is removed.

Pitch-soaked bolts arced over the walls like falling stars.

Flaming Pigs

LIMIT 1

Flammable. Before deployment, place 2 pig markers in your deployment zone. Once per game, at the start of any Activation Phase, set them alight: each pig moves up to 12" toward the closest enemy unit it has a line of fire to, until it touches a unit or impassable terrain. If it touches an enemy unit, that unit takes a Fear Test and gains 2 Break Tokens if it fails; Elephant units automatically fail. If it touches a Flammable Obstacle, the Obstacle burns as with Fire Brands. The pig is then removed. A pig that touches a friendly unit, or travels 12", is removed without effect. Pigs are not units: they cannot be targeted or charged, do not generate or lose Army Morale, and take no Order Tokens.

The squealing, burning swine sent the war elephants trampling back through their own lines.

Follow the Eagle

LIMIT 1

Ongoing. Requires your Army Standard Bearer's unit to be on the battlefield and not Fleeing. Your units within 12" of it that declare a Charge gain +1 Move, and lose no Army Morale if the Charge fails. Discard this card at the end of the round in which one of your units declares a Charge.

"Leap down, soldiers, unless you wish to betray the eagle to the enemy!"

Hammer and Anvil

LIMIT 3

Until the end of the round, when a friendly Closed Order Cavalry or Chariot unit charges an enemy unit that is already Locked in Combat with another friendly unit, the charge counts as a charge to the enemy's flank, whichever arc the attacker is in. The enemy gains Break Tokens from Exposed Flanks and loses its Collision bonus Hits.

The phalanx held them fast; the Companions struck like a hammer on the anvil.

Hidden Ravine

LIMIT 3

Play during deployment, before Byes are counted. One Light Warrior or Skirmishing Warrior unit gains the Ambush special rule.

The ground falls away where no one expects it, and men are waiting there.

Hold the Line

LIMIT 3

Until the end of the round, all of your Closed Order units gain the Disciplined special rule.

Not one step back.

Last Stand

LIMIT 1

Until the end of the round, all of your units gain the Suicidal special rule.

There is no line of retreat. Every man knows it.

Lead from the Front

LIMIT 1

Requires your Commander's unit to be on the battlefield and not Fleeing. This round, your Commander's unit gains +1 Strength with melee weapons and Terrify All. If that unit loses a Melee this round, you lose Army Morale equal to twice the Commander's base Training.

When the general draws his sword and wades in, no one wants to stand against him.

Local Guides

LIMIT 3

Until the end of the round, up to two of your Warrior, Light Warrior or Skirmishing Warrior units gain the Surefooted special rule.

A shepherd who knows every goat track is worth a hundred spears.

Mass Volley

LIMIT 3

Until the end of the round, one of your units with a ranged weapon gains the Volley special rule.

Every bow on the line looses at once, and the sky goes dark.

Night March

LIMIT 1

Play before deployment. Until the end of the first round, Shooting attacks may not target a unit more than 12" away.

They marched through the dark, and dawn found them already upon the enemy.

Raid the Baggage

LIMIT 1

Play when a friendly unit without a Flee Action Token ends its move touching the enemy's Friendly board edge. The enemy loses Army Morale equal to 10% of its Starting Army Morale, rounded up.

While the battle hung in the balance, the horsemen were already among the wagons.

Rally to the Standard

LIMIT 1

Requires your Army Standard Bearer's unit to be on the battlefield and not Fleeing. This round, your units within 12" of it gain +2 to Rally tests, and Mercenary and Levy units within 12" of it may be Rallied by any of your units. Elephant units are not affected.

Where the banner stands, the army stands.

Sappers

LIMIT 3

Play when an opponent plays an Obstacle Command card. Lose Army Morale equal to 10% of your Starting Army Morale, rounded up. That card is cancelled and its Obstacle is not placed.

Before the wall is raised, the diggers have already undone it.

Sound the Advance

LIMIT 1

Ongoing. Requires your Army Musician's unit to be on the battlefield and not Fleeing. Your units within 18" of it, except Chariots and Elephants, gain +1 Move. Discard this card as soon as one of your units is charged.

Horns and drums carry the line forward step by step.

Sound the Recall

LIMIT 1

Requires your Army Musician's unit to be on the battlefield and not Fleeing. During this round's Resolution Step, your units within 30" of it may Withdraw from combat even if they lost the Melee.

At the signal, the line steps back as one, and the enemy is left holding empty ground.

Spy

LIMIT 1

Play before deployment. Your opponent reveals 2 of the Command cards they did not pick, at random.

A merchant from the enemy camp sells more than wine.

Staggering Impact

LIMIT 3

Play when a friendly unit's Charge makes contact with an enemy unit that has a Hold Action Token, if your unit's Unit Strength is equal to or greater than the target's. Before Collision, Bumps or Break Tokens are resolved, the target takes a Fear Test. If it fails, it loses its Hold Action Token.

A line can stand its ground only until the ground itself is pushed back.

Trumpeting Charge

LIMIT 1

Play when a friendly Elephant unit declares a Charge. Before it moves, the target and every other enemy unit within 6" of the target take a Fear Test. Each unit that fails gains a Break Token and loses its Hold Action Token.

The beasts raised their trunks and screamed, and the line before them wavered.

Vanguard

LIMIT 3

Play during deployment, before Byes are counted. One Light Warrior, Skirmishing Warrior, Light Cavalry or Skirmishing Cavalry unit gains the Scout special rule.

Sent ahead at dawn, they hold the ground before the army arrives.

War Hymn

LIMIT 1

Play at the start of the Activation Phase. Until the end of the round, friendly Closed Order units that make a Standard Move or Charge this round gain +1 to Break Tests and Fear Tests.

The hymn rolled down the line, and with it the men went forward in step.

Supplemental Mercenaries

Supplemental Mercenaries is not an army list and cannot be chosen as your army. Its units can only be added to an army through Command Cards.

Rules Reference

Condensed from the rulebook for use at the table. Where this summary and the rulebook differ, the rulebook applies.

Unit Types

Cavalry. Unit Strength 3 per model. Momentum: +1 Strength with a Charge token; +1 Strength to Throwing Weapon shots with no Action Token and not Locked in Combat. Toughness: +1 Armor.

Chariots. Health 1 per driver, crewman and horse; Unit Strength 1 per driver and crewman, 2 per horse. Momentum (as Cavalry). Protected Platform: +1 Armor, using the crew's armor, not the driver's. Stable Firing: may shoot with a Run or Flee token at -2 Accuracy. Wheeled Vehicle: move 1" between turns in the same direction (2" with 3+ animals), 2" between turns in opposite directions (3" with 3+ animals).

Closed Order. Uses a tray in ranks. Has Collision and Exposed Flanks.

Elephants. Health 6 per elephant; Unit Strength 1 per mahout and crewman, 12 per elephant. Great Toughness: Armor 3, ignoring crew armor. Stable Firing. Anxious: double Army Morale lost to Suppression; only Elephants can Rally them. Furious: at Half Strength gains Run Them Down and Suicidal. Momentum: +1 Strength while it has a Charge token.

Light Warriors / Light Cavalry. Deploy as Closed or Open Order. During its activation, a Closed Order unit may spend half its Move Allowance to leave its tray and become Open Order.

Open Order. Loose models in 1" Cohesion (a chain or cluster). Out of Cohesion at the start of the Morale Phase: gain a Flee token.

Warmachines. Engineers are Open Order models within 1" of their war engine. Health 1 per Engineer; Unit Strength 1 per Engineer plus 3 for a Light, 5 for a Heavy or 7 for a Massive war engine. Crewed: the engine moves or shoots only with 2+ Engineers within 1". Protected Engine: attacks target the Engineers; the engine cannot be Bumped, Pushed or moved through. If every Engineer is destroyed or fleeing, the engine is abandoned and counts as destroyed at the end of the game; Engineers without an engine can recover it. Light Warmachines may move and shoot in the same activation but cannot Run or Charge. Heavy Warmachines may move or shoot in an activation, not both, and cannot Run or Charge. Massive Warmachines cannot move once deployed.

Special Rules

Aim. If the unit takes the Hold action, it may use Aim: +1 to its Shooting attacks this round, and Cover against them is one step lower (Heavy → Cover → Light → none). Cannot be used in the same round as Volley.

Ambush. Deployed after all other units, including Scouts, and after all Byes. Optional. Deploy anywhere outside your Deployment Zone, within 12" of an enemy unit and more than 1" from every enemy unit. The First Player chooses who deploys Ambushers first.

Camel Riders. Each additional Rider on a Camel counts as a model for Army Morale, adding its Training, and adds 1 to Unit Strength.

Collision. While in Closed Order, gains bonus Melee Hits equal to its ranks not contributing attacks (e.g. 4 ranks: +3; with Reach (1): +2). They are a Strength 5 strike at Length 0, after every weapon, using the unit's Melee Strength modifiers (Charge, Momentum and so on) but no weapon rules; never reduced by First Blood. Lost while engaged on a flank or rear side.

Disciplined. Cannot be Bumped or Pushed, so a Charge whose path it blocks fails. Automatically passes the Fear Test to resist being goaded, though it may still choose to be goaded. Open Order units only gain this while every model is within 1" of at least 3 others in the unit.

Evasion. While this unit is in Open Order and has a Run Action Token, Shooting attacks against it suffer -1 Accuracy. All Skirmishing and Light Warriors and Cavalry have Evasion.

Exposed Flanks. While in Closed Order: charged in a flank, gain 1 Break Token; charged in the rear, gain 2 (on top of Terrify). Also loses its Charge Action Token and its Collision bonus while engaged on a flank or rear side.

Feign Charge. Declared instead of a Charge, before measuring; the target must be within the unit's Move, or it fails like any Charge. Charge with 1× Move. On contact the enemy loses Army Morale equal to the attacker's Unit Strength, and gains Break Tokens for Terrify or size, as for a normal Charge; nothing else from a normal Charge applies. The attacker then turns about (Closed Order) and moves directly forward up to its full Move, staying 1" from enemies, and takes a Run token.

Feign Retreat. Declared instead of a Charge, before measuring; the target must be within the unit's Move, or it fails like any Charge. Charge with 1× Move. On contact the enemy loses Army Morale equal to the attacker's Unit Strength, and gains Break Tokens for Terrify or size, as for a normal Charge. Nothing else from a normal Charge applies (no Pile In, no flank or rear Break Tokens, no Houndmaster). The attacker then turns about (Closed Order) and moves directly forward up to its full Move, staying 1" from enemies, and takes a Run token. The enemy takes a Fear Test (not if Locked in Combat): on a fail it is goaded, and on a pass it may choose to be goaded. A goaded unit (Closed Order: after one Alignment turn toward the attacker) moves its full Move toward the attacker, staying 1" from enemies, and takes a Charge token; if it has not yet activated this round, it cannot move or Run during its activation, and may only shoot weapons with no penalty for moving.

Frenzy. Does not lose its Charge token when charged by a unit with greater Unit Strength. Gains no Break Tokens from Terrify, including from a much larger unit's charge.

Guard. When this unit would begin activation with a Hold token, it may instead swap its Order Token with another unit within 12" that has not activated this round. If it does, remove its Hold token.

Levy. Closed Order: the rear rank does not count for Unit Strength. Open Order: Unit Strength is halved, rounded up. During Mass Panic, automatically fails Break Tests and cannot be Rallied.

Mercenary. May Rally itself, but cannot be Rallied by other units except Noble units or Mercenary units with greater base Training. Can only Rally other Mercenaries. During Mass Panic, automatically fails Break Tests and cannot be Rallied.

Mixed Unit. Models may have different Equipment and Gear as the profile allows. If models have different Armor Saves, use the most common save, or the weaker if tied. Collision: a rank counts as attacking if any of its models attacks.

Noble. +2 when Rallying other units, and may Rally Mercenary units. Mercenary and Levy units within 24" can be Rallied during Mass Panic.

Parthian Shot. After a Feign Retreat, may make Shooting attacks despite the Run token, only against the unit it Feign Retreated from, at -2 Accuracy.

Phalanx. Rolls to hit this unit in Shooting and Melee are at -1 (to the roll, not Accuracy). -1 Move. Units charging its front (Feign Charges and Feign Retreats included) gain a Break Token unless they have a melee weapon longer than the Phalanx unit's longest. Negated by certain terrain, at Half Strength or under 6 models, or if it has neither a Shield nor a weapon of Length 6 or more.

Run Them Down. The first time this unit charges or is charged, at the end of that Combat Phase each model becomes its own Open Order unit. Each must then Charge the closest visible enemy unit every activation, or Run toward it (no Army Morale is lost for these forced Charges failing). Elephants target the closest unit, friend or foe. These models cannot Hold, Flee or Rally and auto-pass Break Tests.

Scout. Deployed after units without Scout or Ambush and after all Byes. Optional. Deploy outside your Deployment Zone, not within 12" of an enemy unit. The First Player chooses who deploys Scouts first.

Shieldwall. While this unit has a Hold Action Token, attacks against it suffer -1 Accuracy.

Suicidal. Not removed due to Damage until the end of the Combat Phase, even if the Unit Health Table would remove it.

Surefooted. Ignores Difficult Terrain penalties. In a Stony Plain, is exempt from the Move cap, like Open Order Warriors. In a Marsh, Move Allowance is still limited to Move but it gains no Break Tokens for moving there.

Surefooted (X). As Surefooted, but only within the listed terrain types (Stony Plain, Marsh or Sand). Terrain that follows a type's rules counts as that type: Crumbled Ruins as Stony Plain; Flooded Field and Chinampas as Marsh.

Tactician. +1 to Initiative rolls while the unit has a Hold token. Does not stack.

Terrify X. When this unit charges or is charged by a unit of type X, that unit gains a Break Token. So does a unit of type X it successfully Bumps during a Charge. Terrify All affects every unit type.

Volley. If the unit takes the Hold action, it may use Volley: its Shooting attacks this round have their range increased by half, at -1 Accuracy and -1 Strength. Friendly units do not prevent it from shooting, and Cover against its attacks is one step lighter (Heavy → Cover → Light → none). Cannot be used in the same round as Aim.

Weapon Keywords

Cleaving Blade (X). +2 Strength unless the target's Armor Value is X or greater. Always +2 Strength against Elephants.

Cumbersome. Against a unit whose Evasion applies, this weapon suffers an additional -1 Accuracy. This stacks with Evasion and with any effects that increase it.

Direct Fire. +1 Strength against targets within a quarter of the printed range.

Massive Suppression (X). Each Hit causes X Army Morale loss from Suppression instead of 1.

Melee Suppression. Each Hit with this weapon in Melee costs the defending player 1 Army Morale from Suppression, just as a Shooting Hit does. Effects that increase, reduce or negate Suppression also apply.

Parrying Blade. +1 Armor in Melee while the unit has a Hold Action Token.

Pavise. On Hold, the unit may plant its Pavise: Shooting from its front arc treats it as one cover level better, and units charging its front gain no Charge Strength bonus. Picked up when the unit moves (except an Alignment turn).

Piercing Shot (X). Against Closed Order, each Hit causes X additional Hits on the same unit. The extra Hits do not cause Suppression.

Reach (X). Models up to X ranks behind the front rank of a Closed Order unit also attack in Melee.

Recurve Bow. This weapon's Direct Fire applies to targets within half of the printed range, instead of a quarter.

Sunder (X). Enemies roll Armor Saves at a -X penalty against attacks with this weapon.

Throwing Weapon. In Closed Order, only the front two ranks throw. Ignores the On the Move penalty. While Locked in Combat with a Hold token, may shoot units it is fighting at -3 Accuracy, without Aim or Volley.

Thrusting Blade. Enemies roll Armor Saves at -1 while the unit has no Flee, Charge, or Run token.

Unwieldy (X). Closed Order: each turn costs an additional X" of Move Allowance, including the Alignment turn before a Charge. Open Order: -X Move instead.

Characters

Army Musician. Retinue. +2× Training in Army Morale. +1 Initiative. At the end of the Activation Phase you may swap all your Hold tokens for Charge tokens, or all Charge tokens for Hold tokens (not Chariots or Elephants). If eliminated, the opponent gains its Training in Army Morale. One per army.

Army Standard Bearer. Retinue. +4× Training in Army Morale. +1 Initiative. If eliminated, the opponent gains its Training in Army Morale. One per army.

Birdmaster. If the unit deploys via Scout or Ambush, the opponent reveals 2 random Command cards they did not pick.

Bowmaster. Grants Aim. +1 Shooting attack (not Combat).

Commander. Retinue. +3× Training in Army Morale. +1 Initiative. At the end of an allied unit's Movement Step (no Action Token, not Locked in Combat) within 6" (18" with a Standard Bearer), it may Special Move as a Musician (Chariots and Elephants only 1" forward or back); if out of range it takes a Run token instead. If eliminated, the opponent gains its Training in Army Morale. One per army.

Houndmaster. When the unit's Charge makes contact, the defending player loses Army Morale equal to its base Training. Enemies cannot deploy within 12" of this unit.

Lead Captain. +Training in Army Morale. +1 attack in Combat or Shooting.

Lord. +3× Training in Army Morale. Grants Noble. If eliminated, the opponent gains its Training in Army Morale.

Musician. +Training in Army Morale. With no Action Token and not Locked in Combat, at the end of its Movement Step the unit may Special Move: Closed Order 1" forward, back, left or right, or turn once; Open Order 1" toward or away from the enemy side. Chariots and Elephants: only 1" forward or back. Combines with the Commander's move. If eliminated you lose its Training and the opponent gains that much.

Ranger Captain. Grants Surefooted.

Rear Captain. +Training in Army Morale. +1 to Break Tests and +1 to Rally itself.

Shaman. Grants Frenzy.

Skirmish Captain. When an enemy declares a Charge against this unit, before measuring, it may take a Fear Test. If it passes, it falls back directly away from the charger up to its Move, may pass through allied units (not ending on or touching them, or within 1" of an enemy), and gains a Run token. If the charger can no longer reach it, the charger may charge the first enemy unit in its straight path with its full Charge Move; if there is none, it moves as far as it can and loses no Army Morale for a failed charge. On a failed Fear Test the charge resolves normally. Light Warriors with a Skirmish Captain deploy in Open Order.

Standard Bearer. +2× Training in Army Morale. Extends the Commander's range to 18". If eliminated, the opponent gains its Training in Army Morale.

Taskmaster. Removes Levy. Whenever the unit passes a Break or Rally test it suffers 1 Damage, with no save, which causes Army Morale loss as normal.

Tribal Leader. Grants Noble and removes Levy. +1 attack in Combat or Shooting.

Volleymaster. Grants Volley. +1 Shooting attack (not Combat).
